

Press Release for DC Bookstars:
October 6-7, 2023

DC Bookstars Book Signing Event & Soiree

Spellbinding Events is hosting its third public author event, near Washington DC. Activities include a public book signing, networking soiree, and charity-supporting raffle.

Oxon Hill, MD — October 6-7, 2023 — This October, Spellbinding Events is hosting its third public book event, this time near Washington DC. We will have over 70 published authors at the MGM National Harbor for what is no less than a book fair for adults, open to the public Saturday from 1-4 p.m.

Charitable Impact

During the public portion of our event, we are hosting a raffle, whose complete proceeds will be donated to United Through Reading. United Through Reading connects military families who are separated, by providing the bonding experience of shared story time. We welcome donations toward the raffle and appreciate all local involvement. Our last event was much smaller, held in New Orleans mere weeks after Hurricane Ida, and raised nearly $200 for Second Harvest Food Bank of Greater New Orleans. Our goal is to blow that donation out of the water during DC Bookstars.

About Us

Spellbinding Events is managed by three small business owners, and our goal is to support indie authors by organizing author enrichment events around the US. Besides the public book signing, we also organized a day of authorship workshops for our attending writers of DC Bookstars, as well as a casino-themed after party for extended networking.

How to contact us:

Spellbinding Events
Amy Cecil, Rebecca Garcia, and Angie Wade
spellbindingbookevents@gmail.com

For more information on the event:

<https://www.spellbindingevents.com/>